Pleasant to the taste · Effective without Griping.

CURE CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS AND LIVER TROUBLES.

They take the place of the nauseating and violent cathartics used for sluggishness, Piles, and inaction of the Liver. For adults, one MEDICATED PRUNE acts as a mild laxative; two or three have the effect of cathartic medicines or mineral waters but without nausea or griping. No bad effects follow repeated use. For children half of a prune taken at bedtime acts like a charm. The medication is entirely vegetable and healthful. Physicians recommend them. Druggists keep them.

From Washington.

PROBABLE ACTION ON THE SUGAR BILL.

SEYMOUR REPORTED WILLING.—THE DEMOCRATS AND THE PENSION OFFICE.

THE SUGAR QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—It is possible that action may be taken on the Sugar bill after all, notwithstanding the filibustering efforts in the House against it, as it has been proposed as an amendment in the Senate, and there will be a direct vote upon it undoubtedly in that body.

SEYMOUR REPORTED WILLING.

There is still later and, of course, different news from Governor Seymour. A letter has been received here purporting to come from an intimate friend of Mr. Seymour, at Utica, stating that he will not decline a nomination if it should be tendered him.

RECEPTION TO GEN. GARFIELD.

Extensive preparations have been made here for the reception of Gen. Garfield tonight. The clerks in the departments have contributed considerable sums of money to make the reception an imposing affair.

THE PENSION BUREAU.

The Democrats have been unsuccessful in their attempts to make any points against the administration of the Pension Bureau, and the claim agents have about abandoned their scheme. The House Pension Committee, however, seems to be acting in a very partisan way, and will endeavor to make some campaign documents out of some of the testimony.

THE RUMORED REMOVALS.

A prominent Treasury official, through whose hands all appointments and removals pass, says that he has no information as to any intention to remove Surveyor Graham at New York. The rumor probably originated in the stories current that everybody is to be removed who opposed Mr. Sherman at Chicago.

RUSHING BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE.

The conference report on the Agricultural bill has been agreed to in the House, which leaves only the General Deficiency bill to be disposed of.

AGREEMENT ON THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

The House agreed to the conference on the Sundry Civil bill this morning. The bill, as agreed to, increases the items in the original House bill about one million dollars. The Senate receded from its bill by an amount almost equally large. The bill now appropriates about twenty-three millions of dollars.

OCEAN STEAMERS COLLIDING.

THE ANCHORIA AND QUEEN MEET IN A DENSE FOG.

AN EYE WITNESS'S ACCOUNT OF THE DISASTER.—COWARDLY CONDUCT OF THE CREW.—NO LIVES LOST.

NEW YORK, June 15.

At nine o'clock this morning the Signal Officer at Sandy Hook sent word to this city that the steamer Anchoria, of the Anchor line, which left this port on Saturday for Glasgow, was outside the bar returning to New York. At the same time the steamer Queen, of the National line, was crossing the bar on her way to the city. The latter had evidently been in collision, as she had lost her jib-boom and her bows were ripped open. She was deep forward, and from appearances her forward compartment is full of water. The steamer Anchoria was also deep forward, as if she had water in her forward compartment.

The Queen reached her dock at Pier 39, North river, about fifteen minutes after twelve o'clock. She had a ragged hole in her bow to within about eight or ten feet of her gunwale, and extending below the water line for some distance. The iron plates were bent and badly torn, and the figure head was also damaged and cracked. The vessel had on board all the passengers of the Anchoria and about half a dozen of the crew. The story of the collision, as told by the eye-witnesses, is as follows:

"It was about half-past one o'clock on last Saturday afternoon when the Anchoria, which left here at half-past seven o'clock last Saturday morning, and was out about 312 miles or in longitude 67.42 and latitude 40.39, was steaming along at a moderate rate, as a dense fog hung over her, and a whistle was heard off to port, and twenty could not have been counted before a vessel loomed up a very short distance off, and before either one could be brought to a stop the vessel, which proved to be the Queen, plunged into the Anchoria on the starboard side just forward of the captain's bridge, and crushed through its side, demolishing two compartments. A scene of wild confusion ensued. As the vessels came in collision three of the Anchoria's crew leaped upon the Queen. The officers of the Anchor line steamer seemed to lose all control of their crew, which was completely demoralized. The men made no efforts to save any of the passengers and only looked to their own safety. Captain Hedderwick, although he thought his vessel was sinking, stuck to it until every one of the 150 or more passengers had been transferred in boats to the Queen. Some of the passengers had to assist in launching the Anchoria's boats, and as soon as they struck water most of the sailors were the first to scramble into them. The passengers had to assist in rowing, as the sailors whose duty it was seemed to have forgotten how to handle the oars. A boat from the Queen under command of third mate Knight was the first to the rescue, and all the boats of that vessel were sent to the assistance of the other steamer.

The sea was very calm at the time, so that there was little danger in transferring the passengers, and the only accident was the falling overboard of a young lady named Carson, a resident of Rochester, N. Y., who misunderstood the direction of the rescuing party and let go the rope to which she was clinging, instead of waiting until she could be assisted down the side of the steamer. Her worst injury was a thorough ducking. A sailor jumped overboard, but was rescued and another fell into the hold when the collision occurred, but suffered no injury.

Three young ladies who were in a stateroom on the Anchoria had a miraculous escape from death. They were sitting in their stateroom when the bow of the Queen cut through the side of their vessel and came within a few inches of striking them. They were penned up, however, as they could not get near the door to open it, and had to be dragged through a hole cut in the deck. One of the ladies was a Miss Gill, and another's name was Flemming.

The damage to the Queen did not disable that vessel, and after canvas had been thrust into the opening in her bow she was in fit condition to resume her journey towards this city. She left London on June 2 and was due here at noon yesterday. She had about 200 passengers on board, and these were soon assured that they were in no danger. Captain Williams, of the Queen, soon had his boats manned and to the rescue. He and the other officers of his steamer were presented with a testimonial by the rescued passengers of the Anchoria for the assistance they had rendered and the kind and generous treatment bestowed upon them after they were received on board.

Supposing that his vessel was sinking, Captain Hedderwick finally left it, with his officers, and boarded the Queen. After consultation with his officers he concluded that there might be a possibility of making a port with it, and returned to it with the officers and all of the crew but five or six, after receiving the assurance of Captain Williams that he would stand by him, and both vessels slowly neared Sandy Hook and safely crossed the bar. The Anchoria is in the lower bay with the two wrecked compartments full of water.

The Rev. C. C. Marston, of Clinton, Wis., testified to the demoralization of the crew of the Anchoria, and Mr. Charles D. Haskins, of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who was also a passenger, one of the persons interviewed, gave the circumstances of the collision.

The captain of the Queen left the vessel as soon as she touched the dock, and his version of the collision could not be obtained.

The passengers of the Anchoria say that the Queen was at fault, while those on that vessel shift the blame upon the officers of the Anchoria. The collision will be investigated by the English authorities.

NARRAGANSETT DISASTER.

THE WRECK RAPIDLY BREAKING UP.

NO MORE BODIES FOUND.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Advices from the wreck of the Narragansett state that it is rapidly breaking up, and the cargo floating out. It is not now believed that the wreck will hold together much longer. Examination by divers of the lower cabin and berths was completed yesterday, but no more bodies were found.

A son of Captain Scott of the wrecking schooner Relief was drowned yesterday. Charles S. Remington, of Burragoville, Mass., is missing. His wife was saved.

At East Lyme, yesterday, several persons were reported making inquiries for missing persons, and that the names of these missing ones had not before then been connected with the disaster.

FLOODS AND GALES AT THE WEST.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE IN OHIO, INDIANA AND WISCONSIN.

SEVERAL PERSONS KILLED AND MANY INJURED.

FLOOD IN OHIO.

CINCINNATI, June 15.—The heaviest rain storm known for a long time visited this city between eight and eleven o'clock last night. The rainfall was more than three inches. All telegraph wires to the north and east went down except one, showing that the heavy storm passed north of the city.

CYCLONE IN INDIANA.

A special from Kokomo, Ind., says a cyclone visited a point near Frankfort and Circero in that county, destroying buildings. Several persons are reported killed and many wounded.

FLOODS IN WISCONSIN.

GREEN BAY, Wis., June 15.—Reports from the west and north of the continuance and of damage by high water continue to come in. All small streams north are overflowed. Reports from Oconto indicate extensive damage there. The water at Oconto is two to four feet deep over two-thirds of the city. All dams on Oconto and Little Rivers are gone.

DAMAGE AT GRAND RAPIDS.

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., June 15.—For several days the Wisconsin River at this point has been rising rapidly and now the whole business portion of the city is under water and a portion of it swept away. What remains is in danger of being carried off. A portion of the hardware store of Brundage & Ferguson and part of Spafford & Cole's general store floated off on Monday morning. Many others have fallen down. The damage to business firms and property cannot be estimated.

BLOCK ISLAND.

The steam propeller G. W. Danielson, which has so anxiously been looked for for several days, arrived here on the 14th inst., under command of her captain, G. W. Conley, and it may be mentioned, and with credit to Capt. Conley, that although it was his first attempt his cautious and good management in bringing her safely to our island and into the basin (which is by no means an altogether easy undertaking), distinctly shows that we have "got the right man in the right place." A large gathering were in waiting at the landing, and when the steamer appeared in sight flags were immediately displayed from the different hotels and other elevated points. As she entered our harbor she presented a graceful appearance and everyone seemed to show a spirit of rejoicing, and why should we not when we take into consideration the improved facilities which our people are to derive from it, compared with our other disadvantages in being obliged to depend upon the elements in order to see our friends and neighbors across the sea? Truly this is a new era in which we feel justly proud, and our sincere wishes are that success may attend her trips. A description of her make-up, which appeared in your columns when the project was in its infancy, need not be changed, except that she has been lengthened several feet more than was originally intended, and although she is not yet fully completed in the way of finishing touches, yet now she is admitted by all who are competent judges that she is in every respect a staunch and seaworthy vessel, and as her builder, Mr. Thos. Greenman, expresses it, "will stand the sea when some would hesitate to embark out upon the surging billows in her." Suffice it to say she suits us and we are happy. She left this morning (15th) with a small party and will touch at Newport. From thence she will proceed on to Providence where she will take out her necessary papers, and will immediately enter upon her route. We understand that Captain Conley has secured the contract for carrying the mail, it having been transferred from the former contractor, Captain John E. Rose, for the sum of $2,500 a year, running a daily mail from Block Island to Newport during the summer months and a tri-weekly mail during the winter months, and to Providence.

The Ocean View Hotel opened its doors to the public last Saturday.

Schooner Gem, Captain M. T. French, arrived here the past week with a cargo of coal from Stonington, consigned to C. C. Ball. MAO.

FASHION NOTES.

Handkerchief bows for the throat have gingham like borders.

The new fans are formed entirely of flowers; those made of violets, pansies or daisies are the prettiest.

Riding habits grow shorter and shorter and soon it will be discovered that a young woman can ride in her walking dress.

Square bows of gros grain ribbon, made of three loops and one notched end, are put on the front of draped taffeta overskirts.

The newest black lace fichus, large enough for either house or street, have Spanish lace borders, with the top to turn over, but all the ground is covered with polka dots, or else large ball figures of satin.

The newest matinée sacques are cut in a pretty shape, with French back fitted to the figure, and with a loose front held in place by satin ribbons, which are sewed in the under-arm seam and tied in front at the waist line.

The fashionable combination of cream color and gold has the merit of being easily adapted both to blondes and brunettes. The whitest of snow maidens can wear it provided the gold color is not placed near her face or her hair, and it is exquisitely becoming to all dark women.

The underskirts of very short walking dresses are arranged in several different ways. Of course the coolest and lightest style is the plain skirt bordered with a very narrow knife plaiting, but there are double kilts, and box plaits, and, most fashionable of all, there are triple flounces.

Gingham umbrellas are considered very dressy for morning use with black dresses. Those of blue and white plaid, or else black and white, with bamboo sticks, and a clump or knot at the top, are often seen. Striped black and white parasols, with the stripes around, are seen in open carriages with dressy afternoon toilets.

For inexpensive thin dresses that will last a season only, the colored seaside zephyr goods are bought for 21 cents a yard and are in double fold, though not wide. It is a soft cotton fabric, very much like English barege and is shown in pale blue, cream, black, rose and drab. It makes pretty draperies over a silk skirt, and will be used for furbishing anew dresses partly worn.

......When Andrew Johnson was a young blacksmith he fell in love with a handsome girl, whose family prevented a match because they thought the young mechanic was not good enough. Years after, when the mechanic was President, while stopping at a small town in Tennessee, he was told that the woman of his first love was living there, and he desired to meet her. By the offices of Col. Bell, his intimate friend, the woman, then married and the mother of four or five children, was brought into the parlor of the hotel with her daughter, not knowing whom she was to meet. She saw the President and sprang toward him, he rushed to meet her and the old time lovers threw their arms around each other, with tears falling from their eyes, forgetful of Col. Bell and the daughter, who stood by, forgetting everything but the feelings of youth which had survived so long. President Johnson told the story afterward, with tears in his eyes, to a lady whose face reminded him of his first and truest love.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1880.

Albany is a growing city. The directory, just finished, contains 51,940 names, an increase of three over last year.

The First National Bank, of Brattleboro, Vt., is discovered to be insolvent for a very heavy amount, and its president has fled.

The Woonsocket Patriot says the population of Woonsocket by the new census is 15,581. This is a gain of 2008 since 1875.

United States Minister Maynard has sentenced the murderer Mirzan to be hanged at Alexandria, Egypt, on the 1st of October.

Buenos Ayres advices of Monday state that war is imminent, and a Montevideo despatch says it is rumored that skirmishing has already commenced.

Harrison, the notorious counterfeiter of bank bills, has been arrested at Toronto, Canada, and several engraved plates of Canadian bills and United States legal-tender notes captured.

The Rev. E. M. Smith, late of this city, was one of the party on board the steamer Anchoria, one of the colliding ocean steamers, reported in the telegraphic despatches. He had started for Europe to spend some time abroad, as was his intention when leaving this city. His many friends here will sympathize with him in his temporary disappointment and wish him better success in his next trial.

Additional particulars of the floods and gales at the West disclose that the damage to property will be even larger than at first reported. At Grand Rapids, Wis., the entire business portion of the city is under water, while at Oconto the water is from two to four feet deep over two-thirds of the place. In Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, also, the destruction is serious, and numerous dams and buildings have been swept away.

The Boston Transcript: We beg to suggest to managers of Sound lines that a "boat drill" be made a feature of every trip. It is not necessary to put the boats quite into the water, and therefore the steamer need not be brought to a stop, but it would be a good thing to have all the crews of all the boats called away at the same time and put through the drill of clearing away all coverings and lashings, handling the oars, and seeing that everything, down to the last thole pin, is in place and ready. No amount of talk will inspire half so much confidence as this, if done daily in sight of the passengers. It is not a picked crew to go from boat to boat that is wanted, but all the crews of all the boats, at one and the same time.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Herald copies the following from Paris: "I am now able to give you a few additional details regarding the remarkable improvements in the Gower telephone, to which I drew attention in a recent telegram. The improved instrument consists of a wooden box, fastened against the wall, and having a double speaking tube attached to its under surface. The person who wishes to use the telephone places one or both tubes a few inches from his ears and receives the voice of the speaker at the other end of the line so fully and distinctly that involuntarily he starts, looks around to see if the voice does not come from behind him. No effort is required in listening, and the internal mechanism of the instrument is simple and not easily deranged. It can be used with or without batteries, but the best effects are obtained with one or two of La Blanche's cells. These improved telephones insure the general adoption of the system here." Mr. Gower is a brother of Mr. George Lewis Gower, clerk of the House of Representatives.

GARFIELD AND ARTHUR.

Some of the "Independent Republicans" who have no other way of proving their independence than by keeping up a continual growl have shown a disposition to make unfavorable insinuations concerning Gen. Arthur, the candidate for Vice-President. No one has furnished a fact upon which the attacks are made nor even attempted to give a reason for the course taken. But it is notable that the New York independents have little or nothing to say in this line. At a recent meeting of this wing the chairman, J. H. Choate, announced that the "army of scratchers had joined the regular ranks, that every Republican will respond to the roll call, and that the Empire State, which has the casting vote in this great contest, will give it with a will for Garfield and Arthur."

Mr. Choate said further:

"With regard to General Arthur he is too well known for me to recite his praises or his popularity, but I would like to be permitted to say that he has given the best years of his life to promote what he believed to be the welfare and prosperity of the Republican party (cheers), and in a very great measure the successes which we have had have been achieved by his aid. (Applause). His spotless honor, his unquestionable integrity, his high personal character, are known by all men in this community. Should he be permitted to preside in the Senate of the United States it will soon be discovered that that body never yet had a more dignified or more popular presiding officer. (Cheers). It is in this faith and spirit that we came here tonight to ratify these nominations. It is in this faith and spirit that we believe that the state of New York at the polls in November will ratify them by a decided majority. (Continued cheers.)"

The anti-third-term orator, when referring to Gen. Grant, said: "We are all Grant men now. We are all ready to vote for him for a place far higher than that of President—that of the first citizen of the republic—greatest, unsurpassed—greatest in public fame—greatest in the hearts of his countrymen. The Presidency must come unsought as in 1876 it came to Hayes; to Hayes, who has shown how well he deserved the honor by being the President not of the Republican party but of the United States; who, by letting politics alone and devoting himself to the great duties of his high office, has presented an administration of unsurpassed dignity and purity, commanding the respect of his own time and of all that to come after it; an administration that leaves nothing to be excused, nothing to be explained: that will pave the way for another Republican to follow in his footsteps and do as he has done. It must come unsought, as it has come at last to Garfield—to Garfield, a fitly crowned life which from beginning to end typifies the genius of the best American life."

AMONG THE MISSING.

Yesterday the proprietors of the Ocean House received two postal cards from Mrs. Mary M. Boucher, of No. 696 West Newark avenue, Jersey City Heights, New Jersey, inquiring if her daughter, Miss Mary Jane Boucher, had arrived at their hotel. She said she left New York by one of the Sound boats Friday night and since that time she has heard nothing from her. She intended to come to Newport and engage at the Ocean House as a domestic for the season. The mother on one of the cards wrote, "Will think every moment a year till I get answer to this." The poor woman evidently is of the opinion that her daughter was on the ill-fated Narragansett. Mr. John G. Weaver, Jr., immediately sent Mrs. Boucher a telegram, a copy of which is appended.

"The hotel is not open yet. Servants have not arrived. Don't think your daughter would have come so soon."

NEW MUSIC.

When Sorrow Dies is the title of a graceful song by Pinsuti, sent to us by the publishers, O. Ditson & Co., who also enclose Birdie in the Cradle, one of fifteen attractive songs for children, by Franz Abt. The picture title is very pretty. In Dell and Dingle, another song, is a very musical flower song by Roeckel. With these come three good piano pieces: Flower Bell, by H. Scott, Bright as a Button, Polka by Cloy, and Queen of my Heart, polka by Fairbach.

It will be remembered that one Captain Candy, an Englishman, signalized his visit to Newport, last year, by riding into the club-house. A similar feat has been performed, possibly by the same gentleman, at Malton, England. A horse went up-stairs into a drawing-room, but positively refused to come down. Ultimately a part of the wall was pulled down, and the animal was lowered by a steam crane. This funny fellow's joke cost about $1,000.—[Hotel Mail.

TIVERTON.

The Bagshaw estate on the old Fish road, consisting of house, barn and slaughter house, with 6½ acres of land, has been sold by auctioneer Osborn, of Tiverton, to Greene Tripp, for $812.

A haul of 500 large blue fish was made at Round Hill, a few days ago. They were shipped to New York market on the New York boat. They were taken by Messrs. Wilcox and Almy. One of their seines was torn in shreds during the night, they suppose by a passing schooner.

Speed of Steamers in Thick Weather.—Stress is often laid upon the circumstance of steamers maintaining the same rate of speed in thick as well as clear weather. The explanation to this is easy and highly creditable to the management of the boats. On leaving the dock by a steamer, in all weathers, the time is taken by the captain, and noted down, as is also the time of passing every buoy, beacon, lighthouse or prominent headland, as also the course from one to the other. This is intended for guidance in thick weather, and without which it would be impossible to proceed. It will readily be perceived that in order to make this available, the same rate of speed must be observed in thick as in clear weather. The manner of proceeding in thick weather is to run the required length of time from one point to another, when if it appears all right, the boat is kept on her course to the next. If it fails to appear the boat is stopped until it is found. But such is the accuracy attained by the above system that it very rarely happens that the boat stops at all while on her passage. The above is true only of inland steamers. Ocean steamers having plenty of sea room, may order their plans differently.—[Newport Cor. Prov. Press.

SUMMER RESORT NOTES.

Beacon street, Boston, is almost deserted. The houses there look as dark as a pocket in the evening.

The Mountain House, Princeton, Mass., is one of the pleasantest and most desirable of summer hotels in the Wachusett vicinity. It is surrounded by extensive grounds and fine old shade trees, commands a superb view, and its table is supplied with fresh vegetables and milk from a connecting farm.

THE YEARLY MEETING.

TUESDAY MORNING.

At 10 A. M. a joint session of both men and women was held, opening with prayer by Wm. Thompson, of New Bedford, and Jacob Bell of New York.

We notice this morning among the new arrivals, Dr. Rhoades of Philadelphia, and Chas. Taber, of New Bedford. The report of the Committee on Foreign Missions was read, showing the mission to be in a very prosperous condition. In the day schools there are 359 children. Some repairs have been made on the buildings and surroundings, expense defrayed by Friends in England. The medical department has been productive of much good, not only in relieving distress, but in breaking down opposition which at the first was very strong, but now even the priests and monks come to receive counsel and stay to hear the Gospel. 1069 cases have been treated. 27 boys attend the training school where they learn useful trades and the Gospel at the same time. 130 attend the Bible school, and two other Bible schools were reported. Besides the day school at the mission, there are 10 others in surrounding villages. An appeal was read from the resident missionary, asking for a training school for girls, who says that no nation can be lifted in civilization unless the position of women be raised. He finds that the girls who attend the day school are very much oppressed when at home.

Eli Jones, who with his wife Sybil, now deceased, visited Syria and were the real founders of the mission, was present during the time devoted to the report and said he wished he had the strength as he would like to speak. He then proceeded to address the meeting, without rising. Though feeble in body his heart is still warm. He thinks the foreign missionary effort and expense has served to awaken an interest in home missions and been otherwise a blessing to us at home. He said the medical department was carried on at the expense of Friends in England, and complimented the head of that department, a thoroughly Christian gentleman and scholar, a native of Syria and graduate of the college at Beirut. He is very thankful to his friends and co-workers for their liberality and interest in the work. Mr. Jones urged those present not to let time slip away from them and death come and cut off all hope of further help to spread the Gospel in heathen lands. He alluded to the appeal for a girls' training school. The girls of that land are brought up like animals and can rise no higher without help. Mr. Jones then quoted from several who had visited that land showing the great success of the work. The Turkish Governor, a Turk though he is, attended the school and promised his support and said he prayed God would bless the mission and missionary and that they all ought to pray for American and English Friends.

Touching appeals were made by sisters Howland and Murray, Thompson of New Bedford, and E. Comstock of Kansas, urging the women of the New England Yearly Meeting not to slight this call for helping their degraded sisters of the land made sacred by the holiest scenes of earth, the presence of the Son of God.

Prayer was offered by J. E. Macomber, and then a collection was taken for founding the training school, and $800 were raised.

Wm. P. Hastings of Tennessee read a letter in regard to a family of native Syrians from the vicinity of Mount Lebanon, who have come to this country to gain a better knowledge of English language. Joseph Arbeels has been in high position in the Greek church and in the educational work done in that land by the American missionaries, having helped revise the Bible in Arabic. He wishes to be able to translate religious books, &c., to aid the good work. His daughter, a very promising young lady, lately converted, is anxious to secure an education to fit her for preaching the Gospel in Syria. She is to be placed in the Friend's boarding school in Providence.

AFTERNOON.

A meeting for all interested in Christian work was called at 2:30 o'clock by J. H. Douglas. Much practical and needed instruction was given.

At 4 P. M. the report on home mission work was received and read. Several series of meetings have been held with good results, but while much has been done much has been left undone. The Macedonian cry comes from many places, "come over and help us." The fields are white.

Allen Jay said he thought this the most important subject; the one that comes before this meeting. He thought that in this yearly meeting where there are more ministers than in any other in proportion to its membership, many souls ought to be brought to Christ, and would be if they would only put on strength in the name of the Lord and go forward.

Luke Woodard, of New York, said there were 111 ministers to work in the harvest field and garner in while 234 elders fed the flock. He thought the results not what they ought to be from the number engaged. The time has come for difficult work, for continuous labor, personal work and pastoral care and that to this end those who feel called to work should have the liberal aid of the church, and thinks the church has been too long a loser from such neglect.

A very general discussion followed in which much excellent counsel was given and a subscription taken which gave $800 in aid of the cause, making over $1600 raised by subscription in one day.

EVENING.

A public meeting was held at 7½ o'clock, opened by Bible reading and prayer by P. H. Douglas.

John F. Tucker, of New Bedford, made some remarks on the duty of the church and Bible school. He said he thought the two should be very closely united, in fact the Bible school should be the church engaged in the study of the Bible.

Dr. Baily, of New Jersey, spoke on the obligation of teachers. The first duty was to be present every time and always on or before time; the second, that thorough preparation of the lesson should be made and one ought not to teach without it, as there was danger of teaching error unless he had himself mastered the lesson; third, to pray with and for the children. Let them hear you speak their name in prayer for their personal blessing; fourth, a godly life, for without it all Bible teaching is a failure as regards the object aimed at.

Sister Murray spoke on teaching little children. She said it needed the best of teachers, the most thorough preparation, the most complete adaptation. Let Jesus be the central figure. Don't try to teach too much at one time, and have a personal talk with them of their personal Savior and couple their names with His.

A half hour was devoted to questions, which were answered by Allen Jay. Much practical information was given.

Joshua Baily of Philadelphia, Charles Taber of New Bedford, J. H. Douglas of Ohio, participated in the discussion.

The Newport Journal issued on Saturday, will contain full reports of the yearly meeting. Orders for copies may be left with O. W. Goddard at the book-room, in advance, or at the office, 137 Thames street. Price, including postage, 5 cents.

THE BROOKLYN REGIMENT TO COME TO NEWPORT.

The arrangements for the Brooklyn Twenty-third's trip to Boston, in September next, are being pushed forward. It has been proposed and about settled that the command leave Brooklyn on the evening of Thursday, September 16, and take boat to the "Hub." The regiment will be received on Friday morning early by the Boston Cadets. While in Boston the regiment will be the guests of the city, the invitation having come from the city authorities. They will be quartered at St. James' Hotel. The grand parade will be about noon on the day of the regiment's arrival. After the parade the "boys" will have the time to themselves till Saturday afternoon, when it is proposed to have a review and dress parade on the Common before the Mayor and city authorities and other "big guns." On Sunday the command will be religious, and at 9 A. M. on Monday the regiment will take the cars to Newport, arriving here about noon. Dinner will be provided at the Ocean House, and after that is over there will be a short march through the principal streets, followed by dress parade and review. The regiment will then be dismissed for a few hours, and will take the night boat, reaching home early on Tuesday morning.

LITTLE COMPTON.

The Army Worm.—A destructive worm has made its appearance on several farms in this place, and it is feared that they are the much-dreaded army worm. They are yet small in size and confined to limited localities, but they excite the liveliest apprehensions. In this neighborhood they first appeared on the farm of Mr. George A. Gray, a farmer of large experience and intelligence, and we learn that he pronounces them to be the army worm. If we are to have a general visitation of this pest at this early season their work will be unusually destructive.

Town Meeting.—At a recent town meeting the following officers were elected:

Moderator—Isaac O. Wilbour.
Town Clerk—Isaac B. Cowen.
Town Council—Oliver C. Brownell, B. F. Wilbour, Geo. W. Butler, Philip W. Almy, Edwin T. Seabury.
Assessors—Henry R. Butler, Charles H. Wilbour, Daniel Wilbour, Jr.

A tax of $1.50 was voted on every $1000 of the valuation of the town.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

A jury has been empanelled in the Currie trial in Texas and testimony has begun.

Bathing the wrists with ice water will cool one quicker than mopping the head.

Among the late arrivals at the Bridgeport, Conn., cutlery establishments are three Swedish women who work in the blacksmith shop.

The bicycle riders in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, are declared to be an intolerable nuisance. One of them recklessly rode over a lady and a little boy on Saturday.

New York tobacco dealers say that there are smokers in that city who average 100 cigars a week, and men whose cigar bills run up to thousands of dollars per annum.

The beautiful young lady graduate may in subsequent years, forget the title of her essay, but she will always remember how her sweet white dress was made and trimmed.

A dory, Little Western, with George P. Thomas and Fred Norman, sailed from Gloucester, Mass., on a voyage across the ocean, Saturday. They were seen off by large crowds. They intend stopping at London and will visit the Berlin fisheries exposition and will then proceed up the Baltic.

As a fashionably-dressed young lady passed some gentlemen, the other day, one of them raised his hat, whereupon another, struck by the fine appearance of the lady, made some inquiries concerning her, and was answered thus: "She makes a pretty ornament for her father's house, but otherwise is of no use."

Bananas have been successfully cultivated in the open air at Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, and other places on the southern coast of California. Until recently it was supposed that oranges could not be raised in California as far north as San Francisco. Now it is established that this fruit will do well in all the middle counties of the state.

The eleventh annual reunion of the society of the Army of the Potomac at Burlington, Vt., Wednesday, includes a grand parade, an address of welcome by Mayor Hatch and a response by General Daniel E. Sickles, an oration by Luther R. Marsh of New York, a poem by Joaquin Miller, an excursion on the lake and a banquet in the evening. The literary exercises will be held in the Opera House early in the afternoon.

There are thirteen million milch cows in the country, requiring the annual product of fifty-two million acres of land to feed them and giving employment to 650,000 men. Estimating the cows at $30 each, the horses at $80, and land at $30 per acre, together with $200,000,000 for agricultural and dairy implements, and the total amount invested in the industry is $2,219,280,000. This is considerable more than the amount invested in banking and the commercial and manufacturing interests of the country, which is $1,500,964,586.

Mayor Doyle has decided to make the 17th of June a half holiday in Providence, and the City Hall, the banks, etc., will be closed, in order that all may have an opportunity to witness the races on the Seekonk. The two branches of the Providence City Council have decided to witness the regatta from steamers which they have chartered. People are already arriving at Providence from all points, and it is estimated that the largest crowd ever seen in the city will be assembled on the banks of the Seekonk next Thursday. The reception complimentary to the association and oarsmen at Rocky Point, Thursday evening, will be a grand affair. There will be several bands of music, bonfires, electric lights, clambakes, etc., and a table for 100 guests will be set in the hotel dining room.

Fish's military band will give a grand concert at the "Tent on the Beach" next Monday.

The United States are committed to the construction of about twelve thousand more miles of railway this year, nearly all of which are demonstrably wanted, and labor of this kind is immediately reproductive. There is capital to construct these lines, and population to keep them employed, and the growth of material wealth in such a case is a law of nature.

Cleansing, purifying, strengthening and enriching beyond all others are Malt Bitters.

EMULSION
COD LIVER OIL!
—WITH—
Pepsine and Quinine

offer this preparation of Cod Liver Oil to the profession, in the confident hope that it will supply a pleasant and efficient method of administering that invaluable remedy.

It is unnecessary at this date to refer to the very high character which has been borne by the "Caswell Cod Liver Oil" since its first introduction; it is sufficient to state that this oil is used in this new preparation.

The proportion of oil held in the emulsion is fifty per cent.; the finest Turkey Gum Arabic and the purest White Sugar are the other ingredients employed in its manufacture.

The addition of Pepsine and Quinine is made with the view of enabling the most delicate stomach to retain and digest the oil.

SEWING MACHINE!
THE BEST.

IT IS SIMPLE in construction, easily managed, nearly noiseless, and so easy to run that a child can use it without fatigue. It has a self-threading shuttle and a tension nearly automatic when once regulated; it will sew the lightest fabrics or the heaviest goods; it has great capacity and power, and is as durable as any machine made. All its wearing parts are case hardened and readily adjusted. See it before you buy. Many ladies now regret that they did not examine it before purchasing other machines.

We have other first class machines of great merit constantly on hand.

We have also a splendid assortment of Pictures, Frames, Hangings, &c., to which we invite the inspection of the public.

SUNDRIES.

Josh Billings says "Give the devil his due reads well enough in a proverb; but what will become of me if this arrangement is carried out?"

Hymen is always represented as bearing a torch. This symbolized the tortuous ways of true love that never did run smooth.—[Philadelphia Bulletin.

This is the season of the year when the small boy goeth to the barber, and winketh at him and saith, "cut off the ends of my hair." And behold, the barber cutteth off the hair and leaveth the ends.—[New Haven Register.

Chowder got a good dinner at home the other day by telling his wife that he was going to bring a judge home with him to that meal. When he arrived, alone, and Mrs. Chowder asked him where the judge was, he triumphantly pointed to himself, remarking: "I'm a good judge of a dinner." He will be obliged to get a dinner in some other way hereafter.

A recently arrived foreigner lately stopped at one of our hotels, and at the supper table began to play fearful havoc with a plate of hard-boiled eggs, scooping out the yolk and leaving the white untouched. Just as he was devouring the tenth one, the waiter remonstrated with him, calling his attention to his wastefulness. "Good gracious, man," he remarked, "you would not have me eat ten vites, vould you? Da yolk is der shicken, and der vites der fedders. Do you tinks I vants fer make von great bolster of my stomach?"—[Raleigh News.

Blouse waists belted closely, or else drooping over the belt in sailor fashion, are made of pale blue, cream, white or pink Surah, and are finished around the neck with a Directoire collar, or else a square collar somewhat in Byron shape, and are worn with a white sailor tie. Square cuffs turned over the top finish the sleeves. A soft sash tied on the left side, and finished like tassels at the ends, completes the waist.

The Magnolia Balm conceals every blemish, removes Sallowness, Tan, Redness, Eruptions, all evidences of excitement and every imperfection.

Its effects are immediate and so natural that no human being can detect its application.
